

Roederer Estate, Brut NV

Glass: $16

Bottle: $78

Producer: Roederer Estate

Category: Sparkling, By the Glass

Geography: Anderson Valley, California

Grapes: Chardonnay and Pinot Noir

TASTING NOTES

This is blend of 60% Chardonnay and 40% Pinot Noir. Baked apple and toast aromas with a hint of vanilla. Very lively mouth-feel with croissant, honey and orange zest flavors. Crisp acidity reflects a tart, youthful finish.

ABOUT

Roederer Estate Brut, the first California sparkling wine produced by Champagne Louis Roederer, builds upon a 200-year tradition of fine winemaking that has made Roederer champagne among the most sought-after in the world.

Each year, the winemaker selects a portion of the best wines for aging in Center of France oak casks. Aged from one to three years, wines from this reserve cellar are added to the blend, creating a multi-vintage cuvee in the traditional Roederer style, known for its body, finesse and depth of flavor.

Gambino Prosecco.

Glass: $14

Bottle: $35

Producer: Gambino

Category: Sparkling, By the Glass

Geography: Italy, Veneto.

Grapes: Glera

TASTING NOTES

Fresh citrus with hints of white peach and toast. The flavor is crisp and clean with an elegant dry finish.

ABOUT

Gambino Prosecco, Gambino Gold Prosecco and Jules Rose Sparkling Wine is the creation of Tommaso Gambino and Jules Gold. Tommaso Gambino's Family has been making and drinking wine in Palermo, Sicily for many generations.

Their love of sparkling wines inspired Tommaso and Jules to create the finest sparkling wines in the market.

Laurent Perrier Rose N.V.

Glass: $32

Bottle: $215

Producer: Laurent Perrier

Category: Sparkling, By the Glass

Geography: France, Champagne.

Grapes: Pinot Noir

TASTING NOTES

Fresh strawberries, red currants, raspberries and black cherries are prevalent on the nose. Bright berry flavors, round on the palate, well-balanced acidity. The long finish is very dry.

ABOUT

Laurent-Perrier Cuvée Rosé was first released in 1968.

Cuvée Rosé is made in a winery dedicated solely to its production. Grapes from carefully selected plots arrive at the winery and are meticulously sorted and destemmed before going into vats. Our proprietary maceration process is used which allows for skin contact typically for 48 to 72 hours. During that time, the wine obtains its color and develops the full aromatic richness of Pinot Noir. After the base wines are blended and bottled, Cuvée Rosé ages in the cellars for at least five years (six years for magnums). At disgorging, it receives a light dosage of 9 grams of sugar per liter, classifying it as a Brut Champagne

Dom Perignon 2006

Glass: $65

Bottle: $240

Producer: Moët Chandon

Category: Sparkling, By the Glass

Geography: France, Champagne.

Grapes: Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier and Chardonnay.

TASTING NOTES

Notes of guava and spicy green grapefruit zest combine with stone fruit: white peach and nectarine. The wine opens up, with the whole complemented by woody vanilla and warm, lightly toasted brioche.

ABOUT

In the 17th century, the monk Dom Pierre Pérignon nurtured an ambition to create “the best wine in the world”. This bold and visionary mind even went as far as to earn himself a place at the table of the Sun King, who was won over by the quality of his wine. Three centuries later, Dom Pérignon perpetuates this exceptional artisan’s vision and work, and he is now considered to be the spiritual father of Champagne. Dom Pérignon vintages are produced using the best grapes on the estate. Each one is a unique creation with a style and an identity which are unique to its vintage: it is down to the Chef de Cave to decide if the vintage will be declared. “If the fruit we have harvested doesn’t satisfy the Dom Pérignon Champagne criteria, there will not be a vintage that year.” explains Richard Geoffroy. This vision is tangible through the subtle balance that characterizes the House Champagnes – an alliance of ripeness, vibrancy, lightness and intensity – giving the wine the potential to age with suppleness and elegance.

Moët Chandon Brut N.V.

Glass: $28

Bottle: $135

Producer: Moët Chandon

Category: Sparkling, By the Glass

Geography: France, Champagne.

Grapes: Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier and Chardonnay.

TASTING NOTES

Medium in weight and fruit, with a fine strong mousse. A generous wine of great elegance to which the Chardonnay contributes hints of brioche and hazelnut

ABOUT

The company dates back to 1743, when founder Claude Moët began shipping wines to Paris. Today the house is the largest producer, owning some 1,500 hectares of vines, in the Montagne de Reims, Cote de Blancs and the Vallee de la Marne. The cellars are situated in the heart of Epernay, where there are 28 km of tunnels carved deep into the marble chalk beneath the town, allowing the wines to age and develop in the cool and humid conditions. Moët et Chandon also own Dom Perignon Champagne, named after the monk credited with discovering the `Methode Champenoise`.

Domaine de l'Ecu Muscadet

Glass: $13

Bottle: $60

Producer: Domaine de l'Ecu

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: France, Loire.

Grapes: Melon de Bourgogne.

TASTING NOTES

It is crystal clear and the color of yellow straw. Lime, grapefruit, white fruits, pear and apple, salty and citrus notes are generously present on the nose.

The mouth is rich, straight, providing a beautiful acid screen; lime and soft notes of the sea provide a good balance and a great freshness in this Muscadet, superb landmarks which stretch to the end....

ABOUT

The domaine is located in the hamlet of Le Landreau in Sevre et Maine, Muscadet's best region of production. The family has been producing wine there for 5 generations, but current owner Guy Bossard defies the prevailing view that organic producers can't make great wine. The estate became organic in 1975, and biodynamic in 1986. Guy Bossard makes his own compost using algae, forest brush and basalt. He produces 3 different cuvees, each masterfully crafted to highlight the expression of the specific soil types.

Sandhi Chardonnay

Glass: $17

Bottle: $87

Producer: Sandhi

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Santa Sarbara County,
California.

Grapes: Chardonnay.

TASTING NOTES

Aromas of citrus flowers and fruit notes of limes and lemons along with toasty notes from oak. On the palate it will have good structure and plenty of restraint and balance making it a very food-friendly and approachable wine.

ABOUT

Sandhi is a small production California winery focusing on select vineyards from the Sta. Rita Hills in Santa Barbara County. Sandhi was founded in 2010 by Rajat Parr, the wine director for Michael Mina Restaurants, and winemaker, Sashi Moorman.

Sandhi represents a union essential to the production of wine: the collaboration between man, earth, and vine. The willing participation of all three elements is necessary to make great wine, and the winegrower must make this collaboration rich and nourishing for all involved. An understanding of these joint efforts informs Sandhi's exploration of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay vines throughout the Santa Barbara County terroir.

Hanzell "Sebella"

Chardonnay

Glass: $16.5

Bottle: $83

Producer: Hanzell Vineyards

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Sonoma County, California.

Grapes: Chardonnay.

TASTING NOTES

Scents of jasmine and honeysuckle give a floral lift to the Pippin apple, guava, cake batter and wet stone aromas. Vivid Meyer lemon and chamomile complement and brighten the apple and guava flavors. Unexpected weight and richness across the palate given the generous acidity and brightness.

ABOUT

Ambassador James D. Zellerbach founded Hanzell Vineyards in 1953 with a vision to create wines that could compete on the world stage. Named after his wife Hana, Hanzell sits at the southern toe of the Mayacamas mountain range overlooking the south-western end of Sonoma Valley and San Pablo Bay. After extensive time spent in Burgundy, Zellerbach returned inspired and educated by the region's wines and grapes—Pinot Noir and Chardonnay. He then planted these two varieties at a time when there were less than a few hundred acres of each planted in North America. Since 1975, Hanzell has been solely owned by the de Brie family, who is dedicated to the preservation of tradition with a progressive and holistic approach which will ensure the sustainability for generations to come.

Lieu Dit

Sauvignon Blanc

Glass: $16

Bottle: $80

Producer: Lieu Dit Vinery

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Santa Barbara County,
California.

Grapes: Sauvignon Blanc.

TASTING NOTES

The wine is super elegant and high toned with great acidity. Lots of stoning mineral notes, citrus, melon and white flowers.

ABOUT

Lieu Dit is a partnership of longtime friends Eric Railsback and Justin Willett. The two met in Santa Barbara while Eric was finishing college and Justin was just beginning his career in winemaking. They were among a small group of young winemakers and restaurateurs in Santa Barbara unified by a common interest in wine and all its mysteries.

After countless bottles shared together and many trips to France, Railsback and Willett decided to found Lieu Dit in 2011 and focus it solely in the varieties indigenous to the Loire Valley, now grown in Santa Barbara County. The varied micro-climates and marine based soils of Santa Barbara County are ideally suited to this set of grapes. Lieu Dit centers on Sauvignon Blanc as well as limited bottlings of Melon de Bourgogne, Chenin Blanc, Cabernet Franc and Rosé of Pinot Noir. Each vintage, the quest for purity, elegance, and balance in every wine is paramount.

Stein Blauschiefer Riesling Trocken

Glass: $14

Bottle: $67

Producer: Stein

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Mosel, Germany.

Grapes: Riesling.

TASTING NOTES

Blauschiefer is bone dry, razor sharp, low in alcohol and imminently refreshing, while having intense minerality from the old vines. Delicate and ripe nose of pear, white peach, mirabelle and lemon peel. The wine is quite flowery and fruity on the tad smooth palate. A kick of acidity comes through in the surprising persistent finish.

ABOUT

While Dr. Ulrich "Ulli" Stein's wines are not widely known in the U.S., he has nothing less than a fanatical following in Europe. He could likely sell every last bottle to his friends in Germany alone, yet there are places of some importance, like Noma in Copenhagen, that put in sizable orders for Stein wine. He farms meaningful parcels of land that have a few important things in common: They are not easy to work. They are commercially unknown. And, most importantly, Ulli loves them. In fact, Stein is more than a winemaker – he is a passionate advocate for the traditional, steep, slate vineyards of the Mosel. In 2010, Ulli published a manifesto warning of the threats to the region's 2000-year-old viticultural tradition. Winemaking with Ulli is refreshingly light on "style," instead focusing on what the vineyards say to him. Certainly there is a focus on wines that are dry; lightness and zip are more important than gobs of fruit. Complexity is good, but not at the expense of the whole – better to be simple and well done than overdone and, well, a mess. Cut is more important than size

Sohm & Kracher

“Lion” Gruner Vetliner

Glass: $17

Bottle: $85

Producer: Sohm & Kracher

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Niederosterreich, Austria.

Grapes: Gruner Vetliner.

TASTING NOTES

Pure notes of fresh apple and pear peel are appetizing on the nose, with a touch of spicy tangerine peel. The palate amplifies these expressive fruit notes. Ripeness of fruit and concentration characterize the mid-palate that also shimmers with white pepper. The finish is long and intense, again with that lovely tangerine pith.

ABOUT

When long-time friends Aldo Sohm and Gerhard Kracher decided to make wine together, they brought to the project decades of collective experience and a shared love of great foods and wines of the world — especially dry grüner veltliner from their native Austria. They knew the focus would be grüner veltliner grown in the Weinviertel made according to two basic principles: the wines should be (low to) moderate in alcohol and should never be unctuous in character. Since their first vintage in 2009, they have kept a sharp focus on one variety — from the brisk, peppery “Lion” to the Chablis-like “St. Georg.”

Saumur Blanc

Clos de Midi

Glass: $15

Bottle: $71

Producer: Arnaud Lambert

Category: White, By the Glass

Geography: Loire Valley, France.

Grapes: Chenin Blanc.

TASTING NOTES

Delicious bone-dry Chenin Blanc Raised 50% in tank and 50% in neutral barrels, it is clean and long with subtle suggestions of botrytis, baked apple, button mushroom, honeycomb and preserved lemon. Juicy and serious with intense minerality, and high acid.

ABOUT

While soft-spoken and humble, Arnaud Lambert is helping to drive a revolutionary movement in the appellations of Saumur and Saumur-Champigny. The goal is to re-discover each individual terroir and its potential through organic viticulture and less-is-more, precise winemaking. This is particularly important considering 70% of the surface area in Brézé and Saint Cyr belongs to the cooperatives, where branding and blending prevail, and mass-produced crémants dominate.

Chateau d'Esclans

Rose Provence

Glass: $18

Bottle: $90

Producer: Chateau d'Esclans

Category: Rose, By the Glass

Geography: Provence, France.

Grapes: Grenache and Rolle.

TASTING NOTES

The concentration and the ripe berry flavors are smoothed by rounded tannins and given a bite from pepper flavors at the end.

ABOUT

Château d'Esclans lies in the center of the Department of the Var, where the majority of Provence AOC rosé is produced. The land was occupied as long as 2500 years ago when it was probably used as a lookout point for intruders sailing into the Gulf of Frejus. The original château—of which now only the cellar remains—dates back to before the 12th century. In 1201, Gérard De Villeneuve, part of a wealthy family from Marseille, took ownership of the château and the majority of the surface area of the Vallée d'Esclans that would eventually be sold off in lots. Two brothers, Sauver Louis Ranque and Francois Alexandre Ranque, were the next to own the château, known then as Terre d'Esclans.

In 1875, they sold the property to Joseph Toussaint Caussemille, who manufactured wooden matches near Marseilles. In 1955, the Perraud family owned the property until 1994. At that time, it was purchased by a Swedish pension fund that produced a small amount of wine and the remaining grapes were sold to neighboring winemakers. Sacha Lichine acquired Château d'Esclans in 2006.

Triennes

Rose Provence

Glass: $15

Bottle: $70

Producer: Triennes

Category: Rose, By the Glass

Geography: Provence, France.

Grapes: Cinsault , Grenache, Syrah and Merlo.

TASTING NOTES

Light pink colour. Aromas of pear, grape and cherry fruit. Elegant start and it finishes dry.

ABOUT

In 1989, two Burgundians, Jacques Seysses, founder of Domaine Dujac, and Aubert de Villaine, joined by their Parisian friend, Michel Macaux, went in search of new vineyards. Their attention turned to Provence where they were convinced the potential for great wines was enormous.

After a long search, they discovered the Domaine du Logis de Nans in the Var, east of Aix en Provence.

They were immediately attracted to its gently sloping hillside with southern exposure. They saw its cool microclimate and its clay and limestone soils as ideal for viticulture.

The estate was renamed Triennes, a reference to Triennia, the festival for Bacchus, which was held every three years during Roman times. The prefix “Tri” serving as a reminder of the three original partners.

Failla

Pinot Noir

Glass: $17

Bottle: $90

TASTING NOTES

Warm tones of baking spice, wild sage, balsam and classic cherry coulis with fine tannins. Failla Pinot Noir is bright and juicy with a berry filled palate.

ABOUT

After cutting his winemaking teeth assisting a consultant in France's Rhone Valley during the difficult 1992 and 1993 vintages, Ehren Jordan went on to make powerful Petite Sirahs and Zinfandels for Turley Wine Cellars. The lessons he learned in France about maximizing ripeness in challenging conditions now serve Jordan at the 85-acre property on the Sonoma Coast, about 2.5 miles from the Pacific Ocean. In 1998 Ehren planted another parcel contiguous to their first, and in 2002 planted it with five acres of rootstock before grafting six selections of long-coveted Pinot Noir scion material the following year. Ehren's commitment to the highest standards of viticultural practice, coupled with his education in France and throughout California, is expressed every bottle of Failla Chardonnay and Pinot Noir.

Producer: Failla

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Sonoma Coast, California.

Grapes: Pinot Noir.

Salem Wine Co

Pinot Noir

Glass: $18

Bottle: $88

Producer: Salem Wine Co.

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Eola-Amity Hills, Oregon.

Grapes: Pinot Noir.

TASTING NOTES

On the nose notes of violets, strawberry, ripe cherry, an earthy potting soil note and a developing bubblegum/cotton candy smell. Strawberry and cherry carry to the palate and the acidity is just right. Medium body and nice round tannins with a finish that goes on and on!

ABOUT

Salem Wine Company is a project by Rajat Parr and Sashi Moorman, who were behind the highly sought after Evening Land, Sandhi, and Domaine de la Côte wines. Near Salem, Oregon, about an hour's drive southeast of Portland, lies the Eola-Amity Hills AVA, which is contained entirely within the larger Willamette Valley AVA, established in 2006. The name Eola comes from Aeolus, the Greek god of winds, and it's those winds that define this AVA's character, as cool sea breezes are funneled over the hills, rapidly cooling the vineyards but also increasing evaporation. Foliage is thinner and vines are challenged to produce their fruit, gaining complexity as they respond to unique climactic changes. Most of the fruit for this cuvée comes from the renowned, biodynamically farmed Seven Springs Vineyard, and is dry farmed from all volcanic soils. This 100% pinot noir is aged for 15 months in neutral oak barrels, and the purity of fruit really shines through. It is delicate and elegant with silky tannins and a streak of earth. Sustainably grown.

Stolpman Estate Syrah

Glass: $17

Bottle: $83

Producer: Stolpman Estate

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Santa Barbara County ,
California.

Grapes: Syrah.

TASTING NOTES

Nose of blackberry, violets, rose petal, cracked pepper and grilled meat. On the palate, the wine is medium to full-bodied, expansive and juicy with an ample core of sweet fruit and good length and persistence.

ABOUT

Over 20 years ago, our Founding Partner, Thomas Stolpman, discovered what we believe to be one of the greatest viticultural sites on earth. Hidden in the hills of California's Central Coast, on a rare Limestone outcropping & unobstructed from the Pacific Ocean wind, this unique land is ideally suited to grow Syrah and Roussanne grapes. We are committed to preserving this natural environment for our vines through natural farming, dry farming, & sustainable employment. In the winery, we prefer native fermentation & minimal manipulation.

Dedicated to sensible farming & winemaking, we believe that we can create natural, vibrant, site-specific wines, with a focus unique to Ballard Canyon AVA, California.

Hobo Wine Co.

Cabernet Sauvignon

Glass: $16

Bottle: $60

Producer: Hobo Wine Co.

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Sonoma County , California.

Grapes: Cabernet Sauvignon.

TASTING NOTES

It works deliciously, thick and concentrated in cherry, cranberry and a tease of orange peel, staying crisply intriguing and amazingly light bodied on the palate.

ABOUT

Camp Wines were created by the Hobo Wine Co. in 2011 to showcase the quality and value of Sonoma County wine. We work with top growers and vineyard managers in very high quality and responsibly farmed, though lesser known, vineyards throughout Sonoma County to produce delicious, approachable, and affordable wines.

Like Hobo, the Camp wines employ native yeasts and malolactic bacterias for the primary and secondary fermentations without the use of commercial fermentation aids or additives. The wines are aged in real oak barrels and/or stainless steel tanks vs. alternatives or flavoring agents.

Amici Cellars

Cabernet Sauvignon

Glass: $25

Bottle: $125

Producer: Amici Cellars

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Napa Valley , California.

Grapes: Cabernet Sauvignon.

TASTING NOTES

Aromas of black cherry and cassis. A rich, lush palate with black cherry, cedar box and savory Herb de Provence, leading to a finish of dark powdered chocolate and baked plum.

ABOUT

Our family-owned winery is nestled in the foothills of the Palisades, just outside Calistoga, Napa Valley, where we are dedicated to producing true-to-varietal wines from exceptional vineyard sources.

Working alongside our talented winemaking team led by Tony Biagi and Jesse Fox, together we bring decades of relationships with outstanding growers that, combined with their craftsmanship, result in elegant, balanced, expressive wines made to be enjoyed among friends.

Montesecondo Chianti Classico

Glass: $20

Bottle: $100

Producer: Montesecondo

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Tuscany , Italy.

Grapes: Sangiovese.

TASTING NOTES

Aromas of red and black cherry, ripe wild strawberry, orange peel, rosemary, leather, turned earth, and grill char. Medium-bodied and buoyantly fresh, it has the ideal push-pull of sweet and savory through the long and aromatic finish

ABOUT

Silvio worked in the wine business in New York until he moved back to Italy in the 1990's to take over his family farm, Montesecondo, in the village of Cerbaia in the Chianti Classico region of Tuscany. Silvio's father purchased the property back in 1963; besides olive groves and forest, there were vineyards whose fruit was sold to the local co-op. Silvio bottled the estate's first wine in 2000 from their vineyards of Sangiovese, Canaiolo, Colorino, Cabernet Sauvignon and Petit Verdot; they are being replanted over time with massale selection vines. Silvio used chemicals in the vineyard at first but could feel the toxic effects on his body and had converted the farm to organic by 2003; that same year, inspired by a seminar with Savennières's biodynamic icon Nicolas Joly, he began the conversion to biodynamics.

Jean Louis Chave Cotes Du Rhone

Glass: $16

Bottle: $78

Producer: Jean Louis Chave

Category: Red, By the Glass

Geography: Rhone , France.

Grapes: Syrah, Grenache.

TASTING NOTES

Aroma notes of sweet and spicy berries, violets, and a touch of licorice. Red and dark berries with a wealth of plush and ripe tannins that deliver a round, smooth and approachable mouthfeel.

ABOUT

Jean-Louis makes these négociant wines to showcase what he believes to be the potential appellations with which he works. The Côtes du Rhône 'Mon Coeur' is a blend of four distinct terroir located in and around Chateauneuf-du-Pape. Though the blend varies year to year, it is roughly 50% Syrah and 50% Grenache. Vine age is between 20-60 years.
